BRUCE AND ANN BACHMANN FAMILY FOUNDATION

Looking for all athletes and tennis players with physical disabilities to come play tennis with our world-class staff of coaches at the inaugural National All-Comers Wheelchair Tennis camp at Rocky Mountain Tennis Center.

Led by former #1 World ranked doubles player, Dr. Scott Douglas, and supported by Coaches Frank Adams, Dean Oba, Kendall Chitambar, and the RMTC coaching team, RMTC is honored to host our first All Comers Tennis Camp (indoors in the RMTC bubble & outdoors at the University of Colorado Tennis Complex with good weather.) "All Comers" welcomes all athletes with physical disabilities, kids and adults alike. Open to 20 adults and 20 juniors, we hope to help players of all levels, from beginners to performance tournament players, play a ton of tennis, get a great work out, and develop their games.

Players will train two sessions per day: skill, movement, technical and tactical development each morning; points and match play development each afternoon. Adults are encouraged to play the RMTC Fall Adult Wheelchair Tennis Open or continue in the camp, Saturday and Sunday, October 22nd and 23rd. Juniors will play the camp and we'll finish with an in-house team event tournament for less experienced players and the option to play the RMTC Fall Adult Wheelchair Open for the more experienced players.

MEET THE COACHES

Dr. Scott Douglas

"Coach D" is Professor of Coaching Development at the University of Northern Colorado. He was the Bronze Medalist at the 2000 Paralympics and was former #6 world ranked in singles as well as #1 world ranked in doubles.

Frank Adams

Frank has 40 years of coaching experience and was named 2017 PTR International Coach of the Year. He is the Director of Tennis at Highlands Ranch Community Association-Northridge and was the first African-American President of the Colorado Tennis Association.

Dean Oba

Dean has over 25 years of experience in coaching wheelchair tennis and has been a major catalyst in expanding accessible sports in the Salt Lake City area. He was awarded the 2012 Brad Parks Award from the USTA as well as the RSI 2009 Wheelchair Tennis Champion Award.

Kendall Chitambar

Kendall is one of three Owners and is the Director of Tennis at the Rocky Mountain Tennis Center. He has 30+ years of experience in coaching all levels as well as 10 years of experience in coaching wheelchair tennis. He is currently USTA Net Generation Junior Wheelchair Tennis Regional Provider for the Intermountain Section.
